

NATIONAL COMPUTE ACCEPTABLE USE POLICY

Last Updated: September 14, 2026

This Acceptable Use Policy (this “Policy”) describes material and activities not permitted by National Compute in connection with its customers use of National Compute’s Services. This Policy is illustrative, not exhaustive, and National Compute may take action in connection with material and activities that National Compute reasonably determines fall within the scope of this Policy notwithstanding whether they are specifically described below. Customer is responsible for violations of this Policy by anyone using its accounts, whether with or without Customer’s authorization, including its Permitted Users.

National Compute may modify this Policy at any time by posting a revised version at this link (or a successor site) and updating the “Last Updated” date above. All capitalized terms in this Policy have the meanings given them in the agreement entered into by National Compute and Customer into which this Policy has been incorporated by reference.

1. General Use Restrictions. Customer shall not (and shall not permit any third party to):

- a. modify, copy, display, republish, distribute, license, lease, sell, resell, transfer, publicly display, publicly perform, transmit, stream, broadcast, create derivative works based on the Services or any part thereof;
- b. decompile, disassemble, or reverse engineer the Services or any part thereof;
- c. access the Services or any part thereof in order to build a competitive product or service, or copy any ideas, features, functions or graphics of the Services;
- d. interfere with or disrupt the integrity or performance of the Services or any part thereof;
- e. attempt to gain unauthorized access to the Services or related systems or networks;
- f. violate or attempt to circumvent any rate limits or other technical restrictions placed by National Compute on the Services or their use;
- g. remove or alter any trademark, logo, copyright or other proprietary notices, legends, symbols or labels in the Services or any part thereof;
- h. without the express prior written consent of National Compute, permit any third-party to conduct any benchmarking or availability testing of the Services or comparative study or analysis involving the Services for any reason or purpose, or publicly disclose any benchmarking or availability testing of the Services;
- i. permit access to the Services by anyone other than Permitted Users;
- j. access or use the Services from an embargoed nation, including without limitation, Cuba, Iran, North Korea, Syria, Sudan, Russia, Crimea, or any other country/region that becomes an embargoed nation; or
- k. otherwise use the Services in violation of any applicable law, rule, or regulation.

2. Acceptable Use. Without limiting the generality of Section 1 above, Customer shall not (and shall not permit any third party to):

- a. perform, promote, encourage, or obfuscate any unlawful activities (including the production, promotion, or dissemination of unlawful content);
- b. engage in any activities that are deceptive or harmful to others, or that would harm National Compute’s operations or reputation, including without limitation offering, distributing, or promoting fraudulent goods and services and impersonating others without their consent;
- c. infringe, misappropriate, or otherwise violate (or assist others in infringing, misappropriating, or otherwise violating) National Compute’s or any third party’s intellectual property or other rights;
- d. produce, promote, or disseminate child pornography, depictions of nudity or sexual activity obtained or disseminated without the consent of those depicted, or other unlawful pornography, or that is defamatory, obscene, abusive, or otherwise objectionable;
- e. produce, promote or disseminate content that incites or threatens violence against any person, promotes terrorism, is intended to harass, abuse or invade an individual’s privacy, creates a risk to the physical safety or health of any individual or to public health or safety, or that threatens or encourages harm on the basis of any protected status;

f. produce, promote, or disseminate content to National Compute or third parties without the addressee's consent;

g. engage in cryptocurrency mining activities;

h. violate the security or integrity of any network, compute, or communications system, software application, network, or computing device, including without limitation by engaging in offensive cyber activities such as denial of service attacks, mail bombing, flooding, phishing, hacking, and the like, monitoring data or traffic without permission, introducing viruses, malware, spyware, Trojan horses, worms, time bombs, or the like; or

i. probe, scan, penetrate, or test the vulnerability of the Services or any part thereof without National Compute's prior written approval.
